

Methods and products for modulation of reproductive processes and for diagnosis, prognostication and treatment of related conditions

The invention relates to diagnosis, prognostication and/or treatment of reproduction-associated diseases, such as endometriosis and infertility. The invention also relates to the determination and modulation of endometrial receptivity, and predicting the window of implantation of the endometrium.

---